

Gary Beach Memorial Scholarship

The Wyoming Natural Resource Foundation (WNRF) will be awarding the annual Gary Beach memorial scholarship. This $1,200 scholarship for the 2018-2019 school year is available to University of Wyoming students enrolled at the Junior level or higher.

The Gary Beach scholarship was created in 2006 in honor of Gary Beach, a long time Department of Environmental Quality employee. Beach served for several years as the Administrator of the water quality division and was instrumental in working with local conservation districts to establish the local watershed planning approach to address Wyoming's impaired waterbodies.

University of Wyoming students focusing on natural resource management are encouraged to apply. The applicant must be enrolled at the University of Wyoming in one of the following academic majors: environment and natural resources, water resources, rangeland ecology and watershed management or a related field.

Applications, copy of official transcripts from all colleges or universities attended and one letter of recommendation should be submitted no later June 30, 2018 to the Wyoming Natural Resource Foundation; Bobbie Frank, Executive Director; 517 E. 19th Street; Cheyenne, WY 82001 or bobbie.frank@conservewy.com.
